APPENDIX 2: PROCEDURES FOR HOSTING NATIONAL PARADERS CHAMPIONSHIP

Animal Selection

- Start early sourcing appropriate animals. You cannot rely on appropriate animals being available at the Host Royal Show. So checking and committing regular exhibitors to providing animals to use prior to the event will help to ease the stress on the hosts.
- Appropriate Animals are of similar size and age. Numerous Breeds can be used, but all of the same Breed is also acceptable. For the National Finals the animals need to have some show experience, but preferably not completely "Bomb Proof" as it is important for both the Competition Judge and the Paraders to be able to access and showcase their skills.

Competition Draw

- Draw for the Paraders and Animals to take place approximately 10 minutes before the commencement of the 1 hours preparation period. This will allow all competitors to be introduced to their respective Animals regardless of where they are housed at the Show.
- It is recommended that all owners of the Animals be present at the draw to help escort the Competitors to their respective Animal. This also helps the Owners to understand the Competition conditions as well.
- At the Draw it is important to make sure that all Competitors are present and that the Head Steward for the Competition (ASA) gives a final briefing to all Competitors and Owners, outlining what is expected and the time line of the competition. Note: All Competitors must be in the marshaling area ready to enter the ring at the time allocated. Being late is not acceptable and disqualification will occur.
- Starting from Competitor Number 1 they will draw out of a suitable container (Hat) the name of their ballot Animal. This will continue with Competitor Number 2 and so on until all Competitors have been allocated an Animal. Once brief introduction to their respective Animals Owners have been made then the Competitors are allowed to commence the 1hour preparation time.

Competition Running Guide

- All competitors must swap animals (Competition Judges discretion) at some stage, which will allow those that have drawn a lesser animal to hopefully show their skills and abilities.
- All Animals must be washed dry and clean before the draw takes place.
- Before the commencement of the Draw, all Competitors will receive their individual numbered arm bands. They are to keep these and have them placed over the Left sleeve of their White Dust coats when Entering the ring.
- Each Competitor is also given a breastplate to be placed on their allocated Animals before they enter the ring.
- During the 1-hour preparation period, Competitors should be monitored by the Competition Stewards to ensure that they are not receiving outside assistance that is not within the "Spirit" of the Competition. They are allowed the assistance of the Owners, with the Owners understanding that the Competitors may need to borrow some or all the appropriate gear to help prepare the Animal for the Ring.
- Having a Friend or Family Member present to assist in handling gear or holding the Animal is acceptable.
- The use of glue and the clipping of Animals during the Preparation Period is prohibited

- Once the Competitor's have entered the Ring, one Ring Steward should assist the Competition Judge when putting the Competitors through the various tasks that they will be given. It is important that they have Handling experience as they may need to assist when Competitors are changing Animals.
- During the Ring Competition, Competitors are not to be assisted unless absolutely necessary. This creates a very fine line for the Stewards, but is necessary as the Competition Judge's ability to decide on the competence of the individual Competitor is important when assessing the class.
- At the end of the Competition, all the owners of the Animals should be thanked for their contributions. Often the Announcer has an opportunity during the Ring Competition to recognise the importance of their contribution.
- Once the Animals have been returned to the care of the Owners, the responsibility of the Hosts are complete.
